Likewise, the Ethics Committee performs the role of Head of the Internal Information System.

Its other functions include the management of its own external channel, the processing of sanctioning procedures and the imposition of sanctions, among others.

2. Purpose of CELSA's Internal Information System Policy

The purpose of this CELSA Internal Information System Policy, approved by its Board of Directors, is to specify the criteria for the use and management of the different communication channels existing in CELSA through which Members of the Organisation, Business Partners and Third Parties may submit Queries and/or Reports about potential Violations that may arise within the Organisation in the course of its activities.

This document details the different channels that can be used for this purpose, ranging from a simple report to the hierarchical manager -who must communicate it to the Ethics Committee - to communication through the channels provided by CELSA.

All CELSA Members have the obligation to report individual or collective behaviour or circumstances that occur in the context of their activities in CELSA and that may involve a breach of the content of this text or of the other documents that make up the Organisation's Criminal Prevention Model, regardless of whether such behaviour has been ordered or requested by a superior.

The purpose of this Policy, which sets out the obligation and use of CELSA's Internal Reporting System, is to provide advice, certainty and protection to any person aware of potential Breaches. CELSA wishes to emphasise that, in any event, Retaliation against a Bona Fide Whistleblower for making a Query and/or Report is strictly prohibited.

3. Communication channels

Different internal channels are made available to Members of the Organisation, Business Partners and Third Parties so that they can submit any type of Communication related to possible Infringements.

In particular, the following channels of written communication exist:

- The Ethics Line will be available at the following link: <https://celsa.integrityline.com/>, accessible from the Organisation's employee portal and on CELSA's corporate website.
- By Email: comite.etico@gcelsa.com
- By post to the following address for the attention of the Ethics Committee:

C/Ferralla, 12, Pol.Ind. San Vicente,
08755 Castellbisbal (Barcelona) Spain

It will also be possible to make a verbal Communication (in case of Reports or Queries made by Members of the Organisation) through the following means:

- By telephone:
Spain +34 910477636.
France +33187212291.
Poland +48221523361.
United Kingdom +442038850064.
Norway +4721097767.
Finland +358942552333.
Sweden +46812160726.
Denmark +4578152329.

The Reporting Party must enter the Access PIN code 9097, corresponding to CELSA, after initiating the call, and may choose to communicate in the official language of the place from which the communication is made, in English, or in Spanish.

- By means of a face-to-face meeting with the Compliance Manager or any other member of the Ethics Committee, within seven (7) days of the request. This communication will be previously informed and will be transcribed and the Whistleblower will be informed of the processing of his/her data in accordance with the legislation in force.
- Line manager or a member of CELSA's management, who should forward the information to the Ethics Committee.

Verbal communications, including those made by face-to-face meeting, telephone or voice messaging system, will be documented, subject to the Whistleblower's consent, and the Whistleblower will be informed of the processing of his or her data in accordance with the provisions on personal data protection.

Regardless of the means of communication used, the Whistleblower will receive a six-digit code (Case ID) that must be retained in order to access the secure communication channel through the Ethics Line.

The official channel for receiving information on the status of the Report or contacting the Whistleblower will be the Ethics Line.

CELSA encourages all Members of the Organisation or subjects who suspect or know of CELSA-related breaches to use these internal channels to make their Communications to CELSA.

Any Query or Report will be handled by the Ethics Committee under the terms developed in this Policy and in the Management of Communications Received Procedure.

Furthermore, the Organisation informs any potential Whistleblower that it also has external channels of information available to the competent authorities and, where appropriate, to the institutions, bodies, organs or agencies of the European Union, such as, inter alia:

- In antitrust matters: Complaint of prohibited conduct : CNMC
- In the area of tax offences: Tax Agency: Complaints
- In case it is related to subsidies or fraud involving European funds: Anti-fraud mailbox - Complaints channel of the Recovery and Resilience Mechanism - Recovery, Transformation and Resilience Plan Government of Spain \(planderecuperacion.gob.es\).
- National Anti-Fraud Coordination Service: IGAE:Servicio Nacional de Coordinación Antifraud \(hacienda.gob.es\)
- Oficina Antifrau de Catalunya: Complaints to the Anti-Fraud Office of Catalonia
- As well as any other competent local authority where CELSA operates.

CELSA also informs potential whistleblowers of the existence of a public body called the Independent Whistleblower Protection Authority, to which they can also turn.

However, the use of the internal channels mentioned above is recommended as the preferred channel of communication.

Persons who communicate a Report must collaborate with the Ethics Committee in the analysis and investigation phase when required to do so. Likewise, they must maintain due confidentiality regarding the collaboration provided and the facts brought to CELSA's attention. This obligation is also assumed by CELSA.

4. Scope of application

This Policy is of mandatory application in the Organisation. The Policy applies to the members of the Board of Directors, the Audit and Control Committee, the Steering Committee and all the professionals who make up CELSA, regardless of the companies to which they belong, their place of residence or the place where their activities are carried out.

The Policy is also applicable to CELSA's contractors, subcontractors and suppliers, as well as to those persons linked by a statutory, voluntary, internship or training framework, or who have obtained the information in the context of a selection process or pre-contractual negotiation or an employment relationship that has already ended.

The Whistleblower protection measures provided for in this Policy shall also apply (i) to the natural persons who assist the Whistleblower in the whistleblowing process in the employment context; (ii) to the natural persons related to the Whistleblower who may suffer Retaliation in the employment context (i.(iii) legal persons related within the meaning of article 3.4.c) of Spanish Law 2/2023 of 20 February 23, regulating the protection of persons who report regulatory infringements and the fight against corruption.

Members of the Organisation shall comply with its contents, irrespective of their position and function. Thus, the scope of this Policy covers all Queries and Reports that may be raised by any Member of the Organisation, Business Partner and Third Party.

It also binds those persons who, even if they are not Members of the Organisation, are aware of the existence of any Infringement in their professional relationship with CELSA.

The material scope of application is set out in Annex I of this Policy.

5. Principles and safeguards of the Internal Information System

With regard to Communications made by Members of the Organisation, Business Partners and Third Parties, CELSA guarantees the absence of Retaliation, discrimination or sanctions for those communications made in good faith or for those actions aimed at avoiding participation in unlawful actions.

In any case, the management of the Internal Information System shall at all times be guided by the following three general principles:

- Principle of trust and confidentiality: CELSA will handle any reported Infringement in an appropriate, serious and objective manner. Likewise, it will manage them in an efficient and transparent manner, avoiding, in any case, violating the principle of impartiality, as well as independence and autonomy.

The identity of the Reporter and the Reported, as well as of any other Interested Party to the Report, is kept confidential.

Any person entitled to participate in the file, including its investigation, must maintain the confidentiality of the information received or known. They may not, therefore, disclose to third parties the information known in the exercise of their functions, in particular that relating to personal data.

The exception to the previous paragraph concerns the need to share information with the persons involved in the case on a need-to-know basis in cases where it is strictly necessary and legitimate.

- Principle of objectivity: not only the facts and circumstances that establish or aggravate the responsibility of the Reported, but also those that exempt, extinguish or mitigate it will be investigated.

Investigators must ensure that they are impartial and objective during the course of the investigation and that they have no personal ties to suspects or any interest in the final outcome.

- Principle of impartiality: the handling of Reports and any subsequent investigations shall be carried out by appointing persons who have no connection with the activities or business affected. Likewise, care shall be taken to ensure that they do not have any relationship with the persons affected, other than strictly professional. It is understood that there is a relationship that transcends the professional if CELSA is aware of the existence of a relationship of friendship or personal relationship that exceeds the professional relationship, which may violate the required impartiality.

Therefore, facts and persons will be dealt with in a neutral and objective manner.

In addition and during the practical management of Communications, attention will also be paid to the following principles:

- Principle of adequacy and sufficiency: CELSA will assign to the resolution of the case all the means deemed adequate and sufficient to meet the purposes of the investigation, given the circumstances of the case, so that there is traceability of the deliberation process adopted by the Organisation, and it can be able to justify the measure to any Third Party.
- Principle of subsidiarity or ultima ratio: if a less harmful channel of communication can be used, CELSA will resort to the least invasive option given the circumstances of the case. Irrespective of the above, CELSA may, subject to the relevant legal safeguards, take immediate and precautionary measures until the matter in question has been properly resolved. Once the proceedings have been completed, the measures may be continued or discontinued.
- Principle of presumption of innocence: any Reported Person has the right to be treated as innocent until, where appropriate, the commission of an Infringement is established and a sanction is imposed.
- Principle of compliance with applicable regulations: all the goodness of the corporate strategy would be undermined if the methods used were unlawful. CELSA is committed to respecting the rights of Affected Persons to be heard and to provide information to those affected. Persons who are the subject of a Report that may be the subject of an investigation have the right to present their allegations.
- Protection of Bona Fide Whistleblowers: CELSA safeguards the guarantees of Whistleblowers. As a general principle, their identity will not be disclosed beyond the persons responsible for the reception and follow-up of cases, without the explicit and unequivocal consent of the whistleblower.
- Prohibition of Retaliation: CELSA does not tolerate any retaliation - by action or omission, regardless of whether it is generated in the workplace or in the workforce - against anyone who, in good faith, reports facts that could constitute a Breach in accordance with the provisions of this Policy, guaranteeing the necessary protection and support from the time of filing the Complaint until two years after the end of the investigation.

However, once the two-year period has elapsed, the whistleblower may request protection from the Independent Authority for the Protection of Whistleblowers, which may, exceptionally and with justification, extend the period of protection, after hearing the persons or bodies that may be affected.

This protection applies equally to the Reported Person and to any other Person affected by the Reporting process, such as a family member or a supportive partner.

- Principle of proportionality: this principle responds to the need for the sanction to be adjusted to the seriousness of the facts, preventing it from being an arbitrary or disproportionate measure. For this purpose, the following principles shall be considered:

- Adequacy: sanctions must be appropriate to the purpose they justify.
- Sufficiency: sanctions must be sufficient for their intended purpose.
- Due process: everyone has the right to be heard and to assert their legitimate claims against those in charge of the investigation.

CELSA will not discriminate against any person on the basis of the Report. Nor will CELSA take any retaliatory or intimidatory action against them.

Violations of the above principles shall be investigated and, where appropriate, sanctions shall be adopted in accordance with the legislation in force, including the adoption of provisional measures while the disciplinary proceedings are pending. Such measures may include the removal of persons from the workplace, or any other measure deemed appropriate in view of the circumstances.

All protection measures are conditional on the Whistleblower's good faith, understood as the conviction that the communication of the facts of which he/she is aware are truthful. In this sense, CELSA will not consider that Whistleblowers have breached any restriction on the acquisition, access or disclosure of information of the Organisation, and will not incur any liability of any kind provided that:

- act in good faith;
- and that the access or acquisition of information provided does not in itself constitute a criminal offence.

The protection guaranteed by this procedure extends to the Affected Persons, among others, to co-workers, family members, witnesses or third parties who intervene for the best resolution of the case, who shall also be required to observe the duty of confidentiality, where appropriate.

6. Protection of the parties involved in a Report

The Organisation will provide protection and support to both the bona fide Whistleblower and the Affected Persons against the possible harm that they may suffer as a result of reporting possible Breaches of which they have become aware, under the terms contemplated in section 5.2.1 of this Policy.

6.1 Scope of protection

The protection of Whistleblowers and Affected Persons shall extend to all Retaliation against them.

A number of examples of possible Retaliation are attached as Annex II to this Policy.

6.2. Protection and Support Measures

6.2.1. Protection and Support Measures for the Whistleblower and Affected Persons

Protection shall involve taking reasonable steps to prevent harm to, and compromise the confidentiality of, the Whistleblower or the Affected Persons.

For its part, support will involve encouraging and reassuring the Whistleblower or Affected Persons about the value of reporting Breaches and taking steps to assist their welfare.

On the other hand, if CELSA becomes aware that Retaliation is taking or has taken place, it will take reasonable steps to stop and address it.

CELSA also informs whistleblowers of the existence of additional support measures provided for by current legislation and which will be provided by the Independent Authority for the Protection of Whistleblowers. Specifically, the following are foreseen:

- Full information and advice on the remedies available against Retaliation.
- Effective assistance by the competent authorities.
- Legal assistance in criminal proceedings and cross-border civil proceedings.
- Financial and psychological support if deemed necessary by the Independent Whistleblower Protection Authority.

6.2.2.2. Measures for the protection of Reported

CELSA also provides for various protection measures for the Reported. In this regard, it will ensure that:

- Maintain the confidentiality of the identity of the Reported, as well as the commitment to protect it throughout the procedure.
- To prevent the Reported from being exposed to reputational damage or other negative consequences during the course of investigations.

- Guarantee the right of defence of the Reported, including the right to be heard at any time, as well as the possibility to present allegations and provide the evidence he/she deems relevant to defend him/herself.
- Allow the Reported to have access to the file in order to be aware of the actions or omissions attributed to him/her and to be informed of the processing of his/her data protection rights.
- Adopt additional remedial measures, in the event that no evidence of violations is obtained, if deemed appropriate by the Organisation.

6.3. Activation of the protection

The protection and support provided to the Whistleblower, other Affected Persons and Reported will be triggered and start as soon as an Query or a Report is received, and will continue during and after the conclusion of the investigation process, and even thereafter for a maximum period of two years from the end of the investigation of the Breach.

Once the two-year period has expired, an extension may be requested from the Independent Authority for the Protection of Whistleblowers, which may, exceptionally and in a justified manner, extend the period of protection, after hearing the persons or bodies that may be affected.

7. Fraudulent or bad faith Reports

The protection and support provided by the Organisation will be subject to the Whistleblower having made the Report in good faith.

The Whistleblower must have reasonable grounds to believe, in light of the circumstances and the information available to him/her, that the facts he/she reports are true. In this sense, good faith entails reporting with at least reasonable grounds to believe that the information about possible infringements reported was true at the time of reporting.

Those who deliberately and knowingly communicate incorrect or misleading information will not be supported and protected by the Organisation. In addition, CELSA will consider each individual case for the purpose of imposing proportionate disciplinary measures against Members of the Organisation or commercial measures against Business Partners and Third Parties who make a Bad Faith Reports.

8. Roles and responsibilities

8.1. Ethics Committee

CELSA's Board of Directors has designated the Ethics Committee as "Responsible for the Internal Reporting System", which is unique for all CELSA companies.

The roles and responsibilities of the Ethics Committee in relation to Queries and Reports are described in Management of Communications Received Procedure.

8.2. Board of Directors

- The Board of Directors shall inform, through the Audit and Control Committee, the Ethics Committee of the actions agreed or ratified, so that they are duly documented and recorded. Among others, it shall order disciplinary measures that are legitimate and proportionate to the facts reported, and in the event of affecting Members of the Organisation, through the Ethics Committee it shall inform the corresponding area for their appropriate execution within the applicable labour framework.

- The Steering Committee shall inform the Ethics Committee of the agreed actions, so that they are duly documented and recorded. Among others, it shall order disciplinary measures that are legitimate and proportionate to the facts reported, and in the event of affecting Members of the Organisation, it shall inform the corresponding area for their appropriate execution within the applicable labour framework.
